HONGKONG, 17TH NOVEMBER, 1881.

As it seems to have become rather the fashion lately to decry Hongkong commercial undertakings, and as we have interested ourselves to some extent with such matters, we now venture to remark that there is a company in our midst, which we think, will not lose, but gain, by opposition. We allude to the China Sugar Refining Company, Limited. We are not sugar boilers, nor have we any knowledge of sugar refining, other than may be acquired by hearsay and a walk over the company's premises at Wanchai and East Point; but the little we know is probably a great deal more than nine-tenths of the company's shareholders ever care to make themselves acquainted with. These nine-tenths possibly think that all to be done is to pass raw sugar in at one end of the works, and bring it out at the other, as an A1111 or a B1, as desired. We may also have thought so at one time; but that is not to the point.

The China Sugar Refining Company has seen its ups and downs, as has many another eventually equally successful undertaking. Started by men who had everything of the business to learn, some big blunders were a necessary consequence; so big in fact, that with a limited command of capital they brought the original promoters to grief. There was however, a fund of resolution and energy in one, who undeterred by this first failure, immediately courted a second, and met it! Unremunerative to himself, his ventures have nevertheless proved wonderfully remunerative to Hongkong investors in the past, and will probably turn out still more so in the future, as we shall presently endeavour to show.

A refinery is a big establishment, and you may not take two or three hundred piculs of this, and two or three hundred piculs of that, and pass them through the process separately. Steam power is not to be fed by instalments; so long as machinery is driven, it must be supplied, and it must be constantly driven and constantly supplied, to make it pay. The process of sugar refining is simply this. The sugar is boiled drained through animal charcoal, and passed into the centrifugals. The first drawings from the charcoal give the whitest sugar. When a change is noticed, it is shut off from the first drawing, and run into separate receivers. This second drawing will not give so white a sugar as the first. But the more sugar drained through the charcoal, the more exhausted the charcoal becomes, and you have third and even fourth changes in the drawings, which must be treated in the same manner as the first and second, that is, when the change is observed, it must be passed into separate receivers. The sugar is then led into the centrifugals, from whence your first drawing emerges an A1111, your second an A111, and so on. The charcoal is removed to the kilns, and refired for further use. All this seems very simple; but then a knowledge of sugar is required to tell what must be boiled to make the quality of the first drawing from the charcoal, such as will result in an A1111. The higher the quality of sugar wanted out, the higher must be the quality put in. You cannot take a $4 sugar and turn it out with profit all A1111. To do so, it would require to be boiled, and re-boiled, and that means so much loss in weight. It is for refiners to determine whether the cost of the sugar will stand this loss, or not, and in practice it has been found that it will not. Therefore some other means are needed to raise the standard of a $4 sugar to the requisite refining touch, and these the China Sugar Refining Company possess, while other companies will not, as I shall shortly show.

The course pursued by the refinery in old days, and which will have to be followed now by newer concerns, would be to make the best mixture of sugars from the selection at their command, boil them, and proceed as aforesaid. Now, as any refinery can obtain results equal to those already indicated by a proper selection of sugar, where is the pull the China Sugar Refining Company has over its possible competitors? It is in this.

It will be observed that a certain standard of quality is required before the sugar is put through the cleansing process (that is the charcoal); to obtain the standard required from the centrifugals (that is the white sugar) and there are but two ways of attaining this, one by the boiling process, the other by the Wenrich. Boiling is more or less costly; the Wenrich process, that at work in Swatow, and at Wanchai, is simple and inexpensive, a patent moreover secured by the China Sugar Refining Company, by which they obtain their refining qualities at a very much less cost than they could without it, and they thus work with this advantage over competitors that their raw material stands them in so much cheaper. We do not know how much, for that at present is their secret. Where the China Sugar Refining Co. will benefit by opposition is not in refining, but in supplying that opposition, by farming out its patent rights at so much per picul on the quantity of sugar produced, or, if it does not care to do that, by adding to its establishment for each new rival, and supplying them with material to keep their works going. It is simply a question of cost, and if opposing companies find, as they will, that they can obtain more suitable and cheaper sugars from the China Sugar Refinery, than they can by boiling, such considerations as working for the benefit of a rival, are not likely to stand between them and a profit; more reasonably may they be expected to seek its good offices, and work in harmony with it. People have probably not given a thought to the great future in store for the China Sugar Refining Co., when Hongkong shall be studded with similar industries, and the parent establishment commands a gigantic business from the needs of newer concerns.

Investors held off, shrewdly imagining that speculators little troubled themselves to penetrate much below the surface, and as opposition usually brings disaster in its train, they were content to add to its perplexities by prolonging the strain. When it became apparent that sugars would not go below 50% premium, they acted, and the immediate result was that no shares were to be had under 55. We have in our commercial column chronicled the business done in September and October, and a fresh move is likely to occur this month. We imagine that some 2,500 shares have changed hands since September, a large portion of which represents solid investment. The stock has fluctuated we admit, but the cause is not far to seek. People who should know, credit certain well known speculators with an intention of depressing all securities, and the public, who are generally the slaves of rumor, are asked to believe in speculators having time bargains to meet, that, with tight money, will result in forced realization. In this they are mistaken; at least, so far as Sugars are concerned. Every share that has been bought on time will be taken up; the stock will be wanted, and there will be no sellers. People, who will not look at the shares now, will want to buy them, and there will occur a strong upward movement, until, when shares are again quoted at 100 premium, it may occur to some "rook" that money ought to be made by "bearing," when all the "pigeons" in the place will hurry to sell, and, no one buying, down come values again, and so history repeats itself.

Turning over some old papers—the other day, we came across the original prospectus, circulated at the end of 1871, of a Sugar Refining Co., which shows how little the business was understood in those days. As we suppose it is well nigh a forgotten document, we reproduce the salient points, which are—

Estimated yearly import of 190,000 piculs of Raw Sugar at $1.....	$760,000
Cost of refining, &c., 90 cents.....	171,000
Estimated nett profit.....	159,000
	$1,090,000

Estimated outturn 80 per cent.....	$1,064,000
Refined Sugar 152,000 piculs.....	26,600
40 per cent. Molasses 26,600 piculs.....
	$1,090,000

This must be accepted as loaded with the exaggeration seemingly inseparable from sketches of this sort. For to begin with, the cost of raw sugar averages much more than $4 per picul, and to end with, the value of refined sugar is certainly more than $7. If you ask, you will probably be told about $9 A1111, $8 A111, $7 A11, while only the very lowest sugar can be bought at $4, the different sorts that are used in refining costing up to $7 per picul. The report of the China Sugar Refining Co. for 1878, is made up differently to those of succeeding years, but even with its help, and that of the 1871 prospectus, we cannot dissect the profit on the working, or the quantity worked, entirely to our satisfaction. Such results, however, as we arrive at, may be worthy of some consideration.

The report for 1878 shows a gross profit on 10 months' working, of $209,520, and expenses of $142,992. What the gross profits, and what the expenses, in succeeding years were, we are not told, because the feeling amongst shareholders has been, disguise profits as much as possible, and stave off opposition. If we take the working expenses, as set down in the original prospectus of 1871, say 90 cents per picul, we may conclude that during the 10 months of 1878, about 160,000 piculs were refined, with a nett profit on refining of about 40 cents a picul. 1880 was a good year, inasmuch as it was generally rumored that the refinery made $40,000 on its contracts of raw sugar, and accepting this as probable, since the profit was great, and the Refinery not up to its present full working power, we may take from 275,000 to 300,000 piculs as the quantity refined. 1881 was not a year in which profits on the raw material were spoken of; and with the extensions at East Point completed, the working power of the company would be largely increased, so that we may accept nearly 500,000 piculs as the quantity refined. This year the subsidiary establishments at Wanchai and Swatow should contribute their quota, and although they do not add to the outturn of refined sugar, they reduce its cost by producing better and cheaper refining qualities than in previous years, we should look this year for a margin of 50 cents a picul, against 40 cents in previous years, say a nett gain of $245,000 to $250,000, against one of $198,425 in 1880, one of $159,000 in 1879, and a relative $80,000 in 1878.

A meeting of United Service Lodge No. 1,311 will be held this evening at 8 o'clock precisely.

We are informed by the Agents that the steamship Belgic, with the American mail, left San Francisco for this port, via Yokohama, on the 8th inst.

The resignation of Dr. Eitel as Private Secretary to His Excellency Sir John Pope Hennessy, tendered some time since, has at length been accepted.

A telegram, dated Washington, 25th Oct., says a circular of the Secretary of State has been issued, which insists on the United States Government having the political control of the Panama Canal; any European intrusion will be regarded as unfriendly.

The latest advices from Amoy describe the position of the steamer Pukhoi as unaltered. The cargo is being discharged as rapidly as circumstances will admit, but as it can only be worked on the ebb tide, it had not been all got out on the 15th instant.

The Helen Marion stabbing case was again brought up at the Police Court yesterday before Dr. Stewart, when John Perry was formerly charged with the murder of Thomas Findlay. The prisoner, deciding to reserve his defence, was formally committed for trial upon the capital charge.

Another beautiful morning at the race course, but only the regular habitués, and very few ponies present. Mr. Grammont's griffins were trotted round, and a few ponies were walking about in the enclosure, this comprising the morning's work. We expect to see training commence in earnest about the beginning of next week.

A Bombay Gazette special telegram says that preparations are being made to renew the war in the Transvaal. Our forces are preparing to advance, consisting of the 16th, 30th, 92nd, and 97th Regiments, the 6th Bargeons, 15th Hussars and nine guns. Sir Evelyn Wood is daily expected at Mount Prospect. The ambulance has left Durban and Maritzburg, and stores are being sent up. The Convention is not signed, and fighting is expected.

The ways of Chinese housebreakers are quite incomprehensible. One would imagine that a stable containing nothing but a few ponies, with a quantity of oats, bran, and barley, and the usual stable fittings, and appliances, would be the last "crib" in the world a sensible burglar would attempt to tackle. Such, however, has not been our personal experience. We rent a stable on the Robinson Road, and on our return from a visit to Macao a few months back we found that during our absence, some enterprising pilferers had effected an entrance into the building, by removing a portion of the roof, and got clear off with their plunder, consisting of an old quarter sheet, valued at about half a dollar. As there were half a dozen mafios in the stable, with a ferocious half-bred Spanish bloodhound almost as big as a donkey, it was rather difficult to swallow the burglarious attempt as described by the mafios. And yet the fifty cents of horse clothing abstracted was a puzzler. The police were consulted, but nothing resulted from their investigations, so we had the roof repaired, and had well nigh forgotten the mysterious occurrence. However, on Tuesday night last another attempt was made to enter the stable, the burglars actually removing a portion of the wall of the building at the expense of a considerable amount of labour and perseverance. As the wall is about three feet thick the enterprising housebreakers had a much harder job than they anticipated, and although a hole large enough to admit a man was almost carried through, one large stone apparently defied all their efforts to remove, and they consequently had to retire unrecompensed for their arduous exertions. Our staff of mafios is rather large at present, and the big dog more than usually savage, so that even had the aspiring imitators of Jack Sheppard effected an entrance safely, it is extremely doubtful if they would have succeeded in getting out so easily unless there had been a regiment of them.

CRICKET.

HONGKONG C. C. V. ROYAL INNISKILLING FUSILIERS.

This annual match was commenced on Tuesday afternoon on a rather dead wicket. The soldiers were lucky enough to get the first innings. Hayne and Stainforth assuming the defensive against the deliveries of Travers and Darby. The innings was only noteworthy for the batting of Charley, Hutchinson, and Stainforth who scored 43, 20, and 11 respectively, the first named batsman's performance being a very creditable display, considering the state of the ground. The innings closed for the small total of 96 runs. The bowling honours were divided between Darby and Hynes who were credited with five wickets each. The Club commenced their first innings with Carpenter and Dunman, to the bowling of Charley and Bennett, and so well were these trundlers on the spot, that run getting was exceedingly difficult. Dunman fell a victim to a catch by Armitage off the slow bowler after scoring four only, and then Charley's expresses accounted for Travers, Blandy, and Newcombe, the former with nine to his credit, the two others failing to score. Hynes, Carpenter, Darby, and Newington all got into double figures, the last named 24, not out, being the highest score on his side. The innings eventually closed for 101, only five ahead of their opponents. In their second essay the Fusiliers could do nothing against the deliveries of Hynes and Travers, Bennett being the only one who could get into double figures, the innings closing for 54. With only 50 to get to win the Club had a certainty in hand, and after Newington had fallen to a catch by Radcliffe off Charley for 7, Blandy and Newcombe, the two "ducks" of the first innings, quickly hit off the required number of runs, the Club thus proving victorious by nine wickets. Full score is appended:—

Another case of a shipwrecked shipmaster being weighed in the balance and found wanting, has just been made public, through a notice which was heard by Mr. Justice Russell in the Summary Jurisdiction Court yesterday. Captain Sawyer, late of the American ship New Era, lost near Manila recently, adopted the novel expedient of paying the wages of his shipwrecked crew by handing them orders on the owners of the ship in Boston, the orders to be paid on demand on that city. Naturally enough the men objected to this unsatisfactory mode of settling accounts, and application was made to Colonel Mosby, United States Consul at this port. The Colonel considering that the men had a real grievance, wrote to Captain Sawyer requesting him to call at the Consulate so as to arrange some satisfactory settlement with his late crew; but that eminently respectable worthy disputed the Consul's jurisdiction and declined to come to terms. The law was then invoked, and Captain Sawyer had the satisfaction of being compelled not only to pay the men their wages, but the cost of the whole proceedings. If the late commanders of the Bollen Abbey, Geraldine Paget, and New Era are to be taken as a fair specimen of shipmasters, sailors must have an agreeable time of it both afloat and ashore. Happily, however, such is not the case.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

THIS DAY, ONE P.M.

A very large amount of business in the shares of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company has been transacted since we last wrote. There were indications yesterday that some movement was imminent, and during the whole of the afternoon, and also this morning negotiations were in progress. At 29 and 38 per cent. premium close upon one thousand shares have changed hands, the majority finding purchasers at the last named rate. The stock closed at 29, with sellers; but offers to buy at 28 have not been responded to. The whole of this business has been of a genuine character, for cash and the end of the present month. We have also to report a few sales of Banks at 112 per cent. premium, and at this rate there are still more buyers. Hongkong Fires were sold yesterday afternoon at 907½, and a fair business has been booked this morning at 910, the last named rate being the latest quotation of the stock in the market. China Fires have also been dealt in at a slightly better rate, purchasers willingly paying 275 for small lots. Steamboats, Hotels, and Sugars still remain in statu quo; but another extensive business has been done in the Chinese Imperial Loan Bonds of 1881 at 1½ per cent. premium.

Poor Rout left his wife and children unprotected for. His wages were shortened by the work of the heathen Chinese, and his life was shortened by the same party's filth. His unfortunate family would thankfully receive anything—except an Amateur Theatrical Benefit.
He was the son of a clergyman, and the accepted of an heiress, whose parents were of the severely moral type. While taking out his handkerchief in the presence of the parents, he pulled out a pack of cards and an old racing book. But he had been to Sunday school, and quickly exclaimed: "Why, there, I've put on my father's coat." There's a trouble in the church in consequence, and the parson will either have to resign or the son lose the heiress.
Moral:—When going courting in a serious family, leave your prayer book and your sporting mementos at home.

TELEPHONE EXCHANGE.

THE GREAT NORTHERN
TELEGRAPH COMPANY (amalgamated with the ORIENTAL Te-LEPHONE COMPANY, Limited, as regards Telephone Lines in Hongkong and China) with transfer of Alexander Graham Bell, Arnold White, Frederic Gowor, &c., &c.

BELL AND EDISON'S SYSTEM.

Permission having been granted by the Government to establish a Telephone Exchange in Hongkong, the above Company hereby beg to invite Subscriptions from the Public.

Throughout Europe and America Telephone Exchanges have gained such a reputation by facilitating daily intercourse and by ensuring the safety of private and public property, that they may now be considered indispensable in all large Cities and Business Centres.
Hongkong with its vast commercial transactions and valuable property, is essentially a place, where a well conducted Telephone Exchange will be of the greatest use, and in laying this Prospect before the Public, the Company hopes that it may count upon the general support not only of the merchants and professional members of the Community, but also of the different Government Departments in order to render the service as efficient as possible.

The Exchange will be worked in the following way, viz.: a head Office will be established in the central part of the town provided with the best Telephone appliances according to the newest and most approved European and American inventions. Each subscriber will be supplied with a complete set of Instruments and will be put in direct communication with the central office by separate wires.

When wishing to use the Telephone, a Subscriber will only have to call the Central Station and give the name of the party, he wishes to speak with, the wires are then immediately switched together, and the two Subscribers will be in direct communication with each other. When they have finished, the Central Office is notified to that effect by a Bell Signal, the wires are then disconnected, and any other connection can be made if desired and so on. The dialogue between the subscribers is of course quite private and can only be heard by the two parties concerned.
It should distinctly be understood, that the message are not spoken to the Central Office, and thence transmitted to the person to be communicated with, but the two wires are simply switched together, thus forming one continuous line, over which conversation can be carried with perfect ease and privacy.

The Central Office will, if practicable, be open to the general public so that any person can thence communicate with the Subscribers. For this service non-subscribers would have to pay a small fee according to the time they occupy the wire.

The Telephones used by the Company are the Combination Bell-Edison.
These Instruments which are far superior to all other Telephones on account of their great distinctness of sound combined with easy management, have met with unrivalled success throughout the world, and are now also adopted by the British Government Departments in England and India.

The subscription fee will to some extent depend upon the number of subscribers, but the price will not exceed $150 per annum for town subscribers.
The following boundaries will be taken as terminating the town, viz.: West.—
The Gas Works, East.—Police Station
No. 2, South.—Caine Road and Kennedy Road, etc. Subscribers outside these limits would have to pay a proportionally higher charge according to the length of wire required and the difficulties to be overcome in constructing and maintaining the line. The subscription will be binding for one year, payable quarterly in advance.

All maintenance expenses of Instruments and wires are included in the above price, and the subscribers will have nothing to pay beyond the fixed annual charge.

The Central Office will be under competent supervision, and an efficient staff of clerks will be in attendance during office hours.

The Company will also undertake to make private arrangements for persons wishing to be in direct communication with their offices, godowns, etc., and to take over the maintenance of such lines at reasonable charge.

In order to expedite the work, subscribers are requested to send in their names to the undersigned agent at an early date.

Should sufficient support not be received, the Company is not bound to establish the Exchange.
